COMMENTARY

MENA equity markets saw a difficult month this August although year-to-date performances remained positive. The S&P Pan Arab Investable Index dropped 3.55% (YTD +2.03%) and the Dow Jones MENA Index lost 4.69% (YTD +5.32). Islamic markets similarly declined, with the Dow Jones Islamic Market MENA Index shedding 5.08% (YTD +1.65%).

The Arab Bank MENA Fund fell by 2.17% (YTD +6.52%) and the IIAB Islamic MENA Fund lost 1.08% (YTD +7.73%). In turn, the AB MENA Feeder Fund fell by 2.22% (YTD +6.20%) and the IIAB MENA Feeder Fund dropped 1.14% (YTD +7.36%).

Contrary to the general direction of regional markets, Oman's MSM30 Index rose 6.49% (YTD -7.38%), and the Egyptian EGX30 Index jumped 10.77% (YTD +13.81%). Aside from the aforementioned outliers, individual country indices declined. Jordan's ASE General Index fell 2.79% (YTD -4.59%), and in the GCC, the Abu Dhabi Index slipped 2.89% (YTD +5.10%), while the DFM General Index dropped 5.47% (YTD +9.05%). Furthermore, the Kuwait Premier market Index lost 3.21% (YTD +23.93%), the Qatari Index retreated 2.59% (YTD -0.64%) and the Bahraini Index fell 0.94% (YTD +14.64%).

In addition, the Saudi Arabian TASI slid by a staggering 8.16% (YTD +2.47%) despite sizeable foreign passive inflows into the market. At the end of August, the Tadawul completed its full inclusion in the MSCI emerging markets index. This second and final phase of its inclusion plays an important role in the kingdom's efforts to open up its financial market to international investors. The stock market will, from now on, have a weight of 2.8% in the MSCI index. A report by the Institute of International Finance (IIF) found that in the first eight months of 2019, foreign equity flows into Saudi Arabia surpassed those of India and China, which have considerably larger economies.

Around the world, equity markets faced downward pressures as global trade continued to be weak. The European Central Bank (ECB) says global trade may pick up in the coming months but only gradually, where it will remain weaker than overall economic activity. Global growth has been held back by weak foreign trade as a tariff war between the U.S. and China chipped away at investor confidence and weighed down on investment. The economic bulletin said that the downside risks to the outlook that the ECB had previously forecast have materialized, mainly due to the implementation of higher tariffs and the threat of further escalation in the trade war.

In general, volatility indices were on the rise as investors reacted to the increasing uncertainty in the outlook of the global economy. The CBOE Volatility Index (VIX) gained 17.74% (YTD -25.33%) and EURO Stoxx 50 (VSTOXX) rose 22.77% (YTD -25.96%). Moreover, as what is perhaps a result of escalating trade tensions, gold prices reached levels not seen since April of 2013. Spot gold reached its peak at USD 1,542.81 on the 27th and closed the month at USD1,520.38 per ounce, an increase of 7.54% (YTD +18.55%).

In other commodity news, Brent Oil lost 7.27% (YTD +12.32%) and WTI Oil fell 5.94% (YTD +21.34%) despite the decline in the number of U.S. oil rigs which in August fell from 770 to 742, according to Baker Hughes.

Global markets moved in the same direction, downwards. The U.S.'s S&P 500 Index lost 1.81% (YTD +16.74%) and the Dow Jones Index dropped 1.72% (YTD +13.19%). In Europe, the French CAC 40 shed 0.70% (YTD +15.85%), the German DAX fell by 2.05% (YTD +13.07%) and the FTSE 100 slid down 5.00% (YTD +7.12%). Meanwhile in Asia, the Nikkei fell 3.80% (YTD +3.45%), the Shanghai Composite Index lost 1.58% (YTD +15.73%), and the Hang Seng Index retreated 7.39% (YTD -0.47%).

We remain cautious of global economic and geopolitical risks and uncertainties. Brexit, trade wars spreading over to other blocks or countries other than China, as well as the volatility in benchmark yield curves, are just the tip of the iceberg of what could be a spark for major systematic market shocks. In addition, the rising geopolitical friction in the MENA region, and oil prices large swings, also incline us to adapt to more conservative allocations. As such, we have lightened allocations to markets where valuations remain stretched, due to their higher sensitivities at current price levels. With a healthy cash position, we will keep hunting for deep value plays, gradually rebuilding the risk positions that were reduced in the first 8 months of the year.
